Irrevocable Non-Dynasty Trust vs. Irrevocable Dynasty Trust

Preface

Irrevocable Trust

An Irrevocable Trust is one that cannot be modified or terminated without the permission of the beneficiary. Once assets have been transferred into the trust, the grantor has effectively removed all ownership rights to the assets and the trust. Beneficiaries of such trusts are typically the grantor's children.

The assets held by the trust can include a variety of items; for example: a business, investment assets, cash, life insurance. Assuming the trust has been properly drawn, executed, and administered, assets in an irrevocable trust should not be included in the estate of the grantor.

Irrevocable Dynasty Trust

An Irrevocable Dynasty Trust is one in which assets are passed down in trust to the grantor's children, grandchildren, grandchildren, etc., thus avoiding the estate taxes due at the death of each generation.

In many states, there is currently no limit to the number of generations that can benefit from an Irrevocable Dynasty Trust; however, there is talk in Washington, DC, to limit such estate tax-free trusts to 90 years -- so the perpetual value of this technique could be significantly affected. (As proposed, new legislation would not be applicable to trusts in effect prior to such legislation.) Coupled with the $5,000,000 per person gift exemption in 2011-2012, use of this strategy for those with significant wealth should be considered sooner rather than later.

States that allow Irrevocable Dynasty Trusts are: Alaska, Delaware, District of Columbia, Idaho, Illinois, Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Virginia, Wisconsin, and Wyoming. (There is no requirement to reside in the state selected.)

Irrevocable Insured Dynasty Trust

An Irrevocable Insured Dynasty Trust is identical to an Irrevocable Dynasty Trust except gifts from the grantor are used to acquire a life insurance policy.

The accompanying material compares and contrasts variations of an Irrevocable Trust as indicated below:
